Future-proof capital markets services.

Ediphy is built differently. From scratch.

Capital markets businesses depend on a jumble of legacy code and systems that require an exponential amount of integration points to operate.

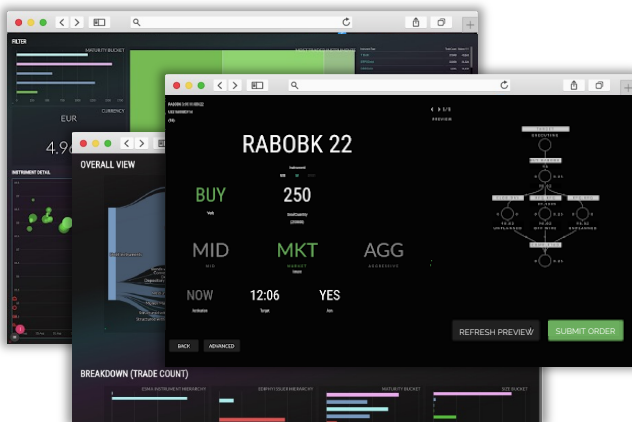

Ediphy is fundamentally different. Enabled by a single-dependency, real-time technology grid, built from scratch using modern backend frameworks. Cloud-only, web-accessed, complexity-free.

No integration points means a faultless, low cost, highly performant and future-proof capital markets partner.

No legacy code means unbeatable time-to-market and scalability by design. No more costly and risky upgrades.

No daily batch processes means all data updates in real-time, accurately and retaining total transparency back to the original source. No more overnight processes or data errors.

Ready for you now. Ready for what's next.

Whether you trade rates, credit or IRS – Ediphy is ready for your orders. Our team's extensive market experience has culminated into a superior service, with pre and post-trade analytics, fully managed front-to-back.

Cut costs today by streamlining your trading flow, while maintaining a high touch capability where needed. Stay on top of regulatory, market-structure and technological changes as Ediphy evolves with you and the markets.

The future holds a lot for Ediphy, including further asset class support and additional capital markets services. On-board today for future-proof capital markets services.
